CAPT. MACAULAY WAS NEAR DEATH

Pilot Macaulay, one of the best known guides to deep sea vessels calling at this port, was not on duty yesterday. Instead a doctor was on duty with Macaulay at his home, 814 Green street. The doctor told Macaulay that he would live aithough the pilot has had about the closest contest with death that a man can have and live through it.

Macaulay was the men spoken of in 3881 Salurday Immunity's Advertisor us "an old sattor" who fell from to Mackfield wharf late the harbor and was registed in a weak conductor, after clinging in a wharf pile for over half an hour. His identity was not busted Friday night, at the time of his avecue. and even the natives who billed himfrom the levely into a boat six and recognition title. Hits whole blocking was on der land he empired his produce of remarks done in the fine contract and they continued need sold the policies and Yanton Markets of Park from the Free from Miled from the mater ned apole acousrewards to give them. Macaulay got a cab and went to his home immediately. Dr. Miner was called and he found that the genial pilot had been severely done up as a result of his long stay in the water and his severe labors in trying to get out before help appeared on the scene.

"It is pretty tough," said Macaulay to an Advertiser reporter, "that I should bring the Coptic in from sea on a dark night and against a stiff gale, berth her in a location which has not previously been used by big steamers, and that I should then walk off a solid wharf into space-dropping straight into the water. The Hackfeld wharf is connected with the land at the Ewa end of the harbor by a bridge much part of the wharf which this approach did not reach, a few yards to the left of the right place. After the first plunge dark in which direction the bank was. hold of the stringer and pulled myself up but each time I climbed the pile my strength failed as I neared the stringer and I fell back into the water. The pile was covered with slime and was very difficult to hold to. This hapcame to my assistance. First they tried to pull me up to the wharf with a halter rope but I did not have suffithey got a boat and managed to pull Waterfront people point to the incident as another evidence that something should be done in regard to lighting up the wharf approaches. The Hackfeld wharf is in almost continuous use by big ocean steamers and yet there is not a single light within several hundred feet of its approaches.

GOSPEL SCHOONER IS IN THE PORT

The small missionary schooner Carrie and Annie now lies at the Bishop wharves in a more or less battered condition as a result of her long voyage from the mission stations in the Marshall and Caroline group of islands.

It is doubtful if the small vessel can be repaired early enough to proceed to San Francisco and make a return voyage to Micronesia in time to give the missionaries the supplies they expect by the first of June. The small vessel has only been in the gospel trade for three years and prior to that time had an interesting history. She was built in 1885 at Essex. Maine, and for a while was used as a yacht. Some years later a party of Gloucester fishermen purchased her and for two years she When the Klondike fever broke out Advertiser: she was purchased by a party of goldhunters and fitted out for a voyage around the Horn to San Francisco, She codfishing cruise. Later she was a scaler and still later again a goldhunter. Then she was purchased by sions and sent cruising among the islands of the South Seas.

WHITE HOUSE POLITICS BY BOTH THE PARTIES

(Mail Special to the Advertiser.) Cabinet changes constitute a very fruitful theme of gossip here nowadays. It is known that at least one of Mr. Roosevelt's official advisers desires very much to get back to private life. or two others will be glad when another year has passed and President Roosevelt's first administration has come to narrower than the wharf itself. In th. an end. Still others are well pleased darkness I stepped into space from a with their $8,000 jobs, however inadequate that salary may be to meet official expenses.

Close investigation would probably show that Mr. Roosevelt has kept more into the water I made an effort to of the cabinet members of his predecesright matters. I tried to swim to the sor and has kept them a longer time Ewa land but could not tell in the than any other vice president, who succeeded to the White House by the death of the occupant, who was chosen I caught hold of a pile and tried to by the votes of the people. Secretary climb it to the wharf for if I could have of State Hay, who took his present got up high enough I could have caught office September 20, 1898, Attorney General Knox, whose term in the cabinet dates from December 16, 1901; Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock, who entered the cabinet December 21, 1898; and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. dean of all the cabinet in point of service as he came in March 5, 1897, when President McKinley was first inpened a good many times. Then I augurated, are all holdovers. It was shouted for help. Some one passing only recently that Mr. McKinley's secalong the wharf in a cab heard me and ond secretary of War, Hon. Elihu Root, went back to his private law practice in New York, giving way to Judge Taft, Mr. Roosevelt's own cabinet appointments are, besides Judge Taft. cient strength to hold on to this. Then Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who entered the cabinet February 1, 1902, Postmaster General Henry C. Payne. vho came in January 8, 1902, Secretary of the Navy W. H. Moody, who came in May 1, 1962; and Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor George B. Cortelyou, who entered the cabinet February 16, 1903. It will therefore be seen that five of the present cabinet are Mr. Roosevelt's original selections, and four are holdovers.

SECRETARY PAYNE. Months ago, Mr. Payne would have been glad to have resigned his cabinet portfolio. Because of the great investigation under way and the fire of criticism, justly or unjustly directed at him, he was unwilling to yield. Recently he has had a severe illness which has greatly taxed his strength It is hardly expected that Mr. Payne, who has been an invalid for years, will be able to resume his duties for two or three months. This fact has lately given rise to more gossip about his leaving the cabinet. At present there is no real foundation for such a prophccy. Mr. Payne wants to carry the investigation of the Postoffice Department

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 27 .- friends, knowing the precarious state of his health, are urging him to retire from the cabinet. It need be no surprise if Mr. Payne does resign during the spring or summer months Should be resign it would be difficult to tell whom the President would select as his successor. The name of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow would be a most popular selection, outside of the politician class. Kansas has never had a cabinet officer and it is claimed that Mr. Bristow's faithful work in the investigation of the department has earned his promotion to a place in the cabinet. there would be strenuous opposition to him by those in sympathy with the grafters and by others jealous of his reputation.

SECRETARY MOODY. mentioned as wishing he were back in private life, is Secretary Moody, of Massachusetts. Newspaper dispatches not infrequently gossip about his early retirement but there is no likelihood that Mr. Moody will retire till the end of the present administration, which will be March 3, 1905, or a little less than a year from now. He has stated his intention of retiring at that time and has plans for resuming his law practice. Secretary Hitchcock and Secretary Wilson are both very fond of their places in the cabinet. They have no idea of letting go and one hears no gos sip about their retiring voluntarily. It is said that Secretary Wilson's sons are aiding him financially to remain in the cabinet, as he is not a man of large means, but he has made the best Secretary of Agriculture the country even had, as both parties concede. It has been mentioned at different times that

The only other member of the cabinet.

Secretary of State Hay is entirely content to retire from office and that he has contemplated doing so. His health at times, has been poor but there is no indication of any present intention on Mr. Hay's part of resigning his portfolio. Lately it has been said that Mr. Hay would be willing to remain at the head of the State Department during Mr. Roosevelt's second administration should he be elected next November. In the event of Mr. Hay's resignation, there would be much talk about the prospects of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, who is the closest personal friend the President has in public life. Mr. Lodge would undoubtedly be averse to leaving the Senate, where he is assured practically of a life tenure. With the retirement of Mr. Moody from the cabinet, presuming that Mr. Roosevelt is elected next November, New England would be without a representative in the cabinet.

Ex-Gov. Murray Crahe was offered the Treasury Portfolio before it was given to Secretary Shaw and the name of Gov. Bates has also been mentioned in connection with Mr. Moody's

ATTORNEY GENERAL KNOX.

As Attorney General Knox is a lawyer of a large and lucrative practice it would be little wonder if he desired to retire before long but nothing in that direction has been heard in Washington. Secretary Cortelyou will be willing to keep his portfolio for a long time yet, as he is organizing the new department and would be pleased to complete that work of preliminary organization, as he is the first secretary, Secretary Taft undoubtedly expects to remain for the rest of Mr. Rooseveit's administration. If Mr. Roosevelt is elected for four years, as the above statements indiate, something of a reorganization of the cabinet would be probable. Along what lines it would proceed could not, of course, be predicted with any accuracy. It is a long time since the South has had a representative in the cabinet under a Republican administration and there would be considerable pressure for the recognition of that section, notwithstanding its Democratic tenden-The Pacific Coast and the far West would also like cabinet recognition. Iowa Kw has two members, Mr. Shaw and Mr. Wilson. It might be that Secretary Shaw would retire, although he is very fond of his place Few names, comparatively, have been mentioned for the cabinet, although in the course of a few months, with a Republican triumph at the polls, many would be suggested.

PRINCIPAL MEASURES NEARLY COMPLETED

Crabbe reminded the Senate that the Federal Government has charge of all buoys around the coests now.

Mr. Achi succeeded in having a salary of $20 a month voted for a district mag istrate at Honuaula, Maui, for whom the bill had no provision. The Maui members did not appear to think the office was much needed.

On motion of Mr. Isenberg the pay of police, Oahu, was reduced from $88,-800 to $78,800. His explanation came later when he moved to save the Gov-

The salary of the Board of Health secretary was reduced from $175 to $150 a month. That of the city sanitary officer and inspector of cemeteries was out in the same figures.

The food commissioner had milk in spector added to his title, and the milk. neat and poi inspector was relieved of the milk. Mr. Achi asked how could a white man inspect poi, but received no satisfaction.

TO SAVE THE BAND.

Mr. Isenberg moved to insert $2,400 the year for a bandmaster and $17,600 for pay of bandsmen. They had saved $10,000 on Oahu police, besides making other reductions. A few mounted patrolmen for night duties would be sufficient. There would be $5000 saved on House expenses. Achi, Isenberg, Kaiue, Kalauokalani and Woods stood up to save the band with seven against them.

An item of $15,000 for bandmaster and bandsmen was inserted, however, by

BOYD'S CLAIM.

A communication was received from R. N. Boyd, which was referred to the Finance Committee. The writer said:

"On July 20, 1903, I received the appointment of Deputy Registrar to the Land Registration Court, in accordance with the ferms and provisions of the Land Registration Act that was passed by the Legislature of Hawaii at its regdlar session in 1903.

"I was asked to furnish a bond in the sum of $5000. This was procured and accepted by Judge Weaver according to the law, which also provided that the amount of salary to be paid me should be determined by the Governor. This was fixed by Mr. Dole, the then Governor, at $125 per month.

"In my official capacity, as Deputy Registrar of the Land Court, I served till December 31, 1903, a period of five months and eleven days. No salary has been paid me for any portion of this period, the total due me amountng to the sum of six hundred and sixty-nine dollars and thirty-five cents ($669.35).

"This amount I now claim as being due me, by the Territory of Hawail, for services rendered, and I respectfully ask the consideration of the Senate for my just and legal rights, and that such steps may be taken for the settlement of the same as your legislative body may deem proper."

The Senate adjourned until 1:30 p. m.
